Becca's Closet has last 'shopping day'

PUKALANI - Becca's Closet at King Kekaulike High School has given away more than 60 prom dresses, suits and tuxedos so far, and it will open its doors for a final "shopping day" Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon.

The formalwear is free to students presenting a high school ID.

Private fitting rooms are available upstairs in K Building on the upper part of the campus. Enter the school from the Haleakala Highway gate and follow the signs.

Becca's Closet is a nonprofit organization that is the legacy of 16-year-old Florida student Rebecca Kirtman. She organized a dress bank to provide dresses and accessories to girls who could not afford to purchase them, so they could attend their proms. Kirtman was killed in an automobile accident in 2003, and her family and friends have continued the Closet in her honor.

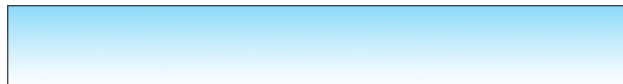

King Kekaulike High School's PTSA sponsors the only chapter of Becca's Closet in the state. Student representative Julia Rose, a junior at the school, has opened the Closet for four shopping days so far this school year. She is aided by Claire Wilkins and Mary Jo Brune.

A limited number of private appointments are available for those unable to come Saturday. Contact Rose at 572-9637 to schedule a private fitting. See Web site www.beccascloset.org for more information, including how to make a donation.
